District of Nevada

- ☐ (2) The defendant has not rebutted the presumption established by finding 1 that no condition will reasonably assure the defendant's appearance and the safety of the community.

Alternative Findings (B)

- ☐ (1) There is a serious risk that the defendant will not appear.
- ☒ (2) There is a serious risk that the defendant will endanger the safety of another person or the community.

The defendant is ordered detained as a danger to the community as that term is defined by The Bail Reform Act for the following reasons: The defendant is charged with an offense in this case for which the law authorizes detention. The amount of the pornography that was found on the defendant's computers, as well as in and around his home, is substantial. The weight of the evidence in this case is substantial. The graphic images depicting child pornography in this case involve very young children. Additionally, the government's proffer indicates that the defendant has been involved in Skype conversations with another adult male about arranging to have the other adult male have sex with someone he represented was his daughter while the defendant and the adult male engaged in conduct. The weight of the evidence is further supported by statements made by the defendant's husband to the investigators in this case, which represented that the defendant watches internet pornography "all of the time, 24/7", that the defendant was the only person who had access to the computer in the poolhouse, that the defendant was the only person who knows the passwords for the computers on which the pornography was found, and that he relies on the defendant to set up all the computers and routers throughout the house, outside, and in the poolhouse.

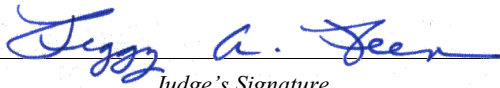

Part II—Statement of the Reasons for Detention

The Court finds the defendant is a danger to the community by clear and convincing evidence and that there are no conditions or combination of conditions that could be fashioned that would reasonably the safety of the community.

Part III—Directions Regarding Detention

The defendant is committed to the custody of the Attorney General or a designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or held in custody pending appeal. The defendant must be afforded a reasonable opportunity to consult privately with defense counsel. On order of United States Court or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility must deliver the defendant to the United States marshal for a court appearance.
